

Eastern 4-H Center Staff Directory

Lynn Cabacar – Administrative Services – Lynn began working at the Eastern 4-H Center in 2012 after a career in community banking. Lynn’s primary job responsibilities include maintaining the center’s financial management – invoices, accounts receivable, accounts payable, human resources, payroll and daily office administrative duties.

Monica Mauffray – Housekeeping – With 25 years of experience in the hospitality industry, Monica continues the gold standard of cleanliness and sanitation throughout the center’s facilities. As a result, the center maintains an overall rating of a perfect 100 from the regional health department. She also assists the maintenance supervisor in repairs and all housekeeping duties. Contact Monica for any “Lost & Found” items at the center.

Charles Midgette – Maintenance Supervisor – As one of the Eastern 4-H Center’s original staff members, Charles has served the center since 2001. As maintenance supervisor, he oversees housekeeping, all grounds keeping, and facility repairs. Charles’ dedication and work are visible by every guest from the manicured outdoors to the flushing toilets.

JP Peoples – Program Director – JP started at the Eastern 4-H Center in May 2018. After graduating from East Carolina University with his BS in Parks and Recreation, JP worked in the Great Smoky Mountains. His love of nature developed while there, transitioning from being an intern to the recreation director. JP oversees all program aspects at the center which includes summer camp, teambuilding, recreational activities, and environmental education.

Sara Lilley Phelps – Marketing Director – Sara has worked at the center since its opening in 2001. From a client’s first inquiry to arriving for their event, Sara works with each group to finalize their event details and customize their experience at the center. As marketing director, she also maintains the center’s website, social media, event publicity, and community relations.

Samantha Roughton – Food Service Supervisor – Samantha brings over 10 years of experience to her position with the center’s food services. She manages all kitchen staff, their work schedules, menu planning, inventory control, and facility cleanliness. Samantha is ServSafe certified and with her staff maintains a perfect 100 sanitation rating by the regional health department.

Jenn Standish – Center Director – Jenn began her employment at the Eastern 4-H Center in February 2017. Growing up in New York, she loved the outdoors. This love for nature combined with her childhood experiences in Girl Scouts directed her in a career of youth development and education. Jenn received her BS in Environmental Science and MS in Recreation. Jenn brings over 20 years of professional camp and recreation experience to the center.
